What are cookies?

Cookies are small data files which are downloaded onto your device by the website which you are visiting. The next time you visit the same website, cookies ensure that your device is recognised. By using cookies and similar technologies such as pixel tags/beacons and scripts ('cookies'), this website can save information about visits and visitors. We place some of the cookies on the websites ourselves, while other cookies are placed by third parties. Third-party cookies may collect data outside our websites as well. Cookies cannot view or retrieve data from other cookies, nor can they capture files or data stored on your computer.

Cookies can be utilised to make visiting a website more personal, by, for instance:

- displaying relevant navigation settings;
- remembering visitors' preferences;
- improving the overall user experience and
- limiting the number of advertisements shown.

Generally, cookies can be disabled. The "help" portion of the toolbar on most browsers will tell you how to prevent your browser from accepting new cookies, how to have the browser notify you when you receive a new cookie, or how to disable cookies altogether. If you would like to use or access our website, you may do so without accepting cookies. However, you should understand that if you choose not to accept cookies, some services that we may offer through our website may not function properly or optimally and you will not be permitted to access certain secured areas of the services.

International Payments at John Lewis Finance's use of cookies

By continuing to use the website, you thereby give consent for cookies to be placed and read out on internationalpayments.johnlewisfinance.com.
